

Intrigue

I can sense that you are drawn to me. I can see it in your eyes. Your beautiful, deep, dark, captivating eyes that caress me with their look, and even from a distance send sensations of shivers throughout my body. I am drawn into the depths of your eyes, to the sheer male magnetism of your closeness, to the fascination you don't fully realize you possess, or even know the strength of, and when I gaze into them, my heart races and my body longs to be close to you. Your eyes tell me everything that you can't say; they communicate a truth more complex than the one we choose to admit to ourselves. In your eyes, I found a mysterious and mesmerizing allure; or did it find me?

~ Moody Lass, Author